Toilet training for children with developmental disabilities

Child and Youth Services (CYS) are holding a free family event about toilet training for children with developmental disabilities, during World Continence Week 22-28 June 2015.

This family event will begin with a children's story time, followed by a Q&A session with a specialist CYC Occupational Therapist, Toileting Consultant. There will also be a range of helpful information about toilet training on display.

Date: Wednesday, 24 June 2015

Time: 10.30 am

Venue: Charles Sturt Public Library
72 Woodville Road, Woodville

Phone: (08) 8408 1333

Bookings are not required, everyone is welcome.

Child and Youth Services, part of the Department for Communities and Social Inclusion, offers families information, advice and support with all aspects of toilet training and management of continence difficulties for children and young people with developmental disabilities.

The theme for World Continence Week 2015 is Tell Someone Who Cares, encouraging people affected by incontinence, or those caring for someone with incontinence to seek support.

Advice about the management of incontinence is available through the National Continence Helpline on 1800 330 066.
